

RELEVANT EXPERIENCESummer Analyst, Stripes Group — June 2016 - August 2016

Stripes Group is a leading growth equity firm that makes $10-100 million investments in Internet, Software, Healthcare IT and Branded Consumer Products businesses. As a summer analyst, I conducted market research, developed relationships and generated new investment opportunities for Stripes.

Managing Partner, Dorm Room Fund — April 2016 - Present

As one of the firm's eight managing partners nationwide, I oversee our team of partners as we source, evaluate, and invest in the best student-run startups throughout the country. I ensure that we have a healthy pipeline of new companies and that our portfolio companies are supported and connected to the Dorm Room Fund network.

Partner, Dorm Room Fund — March 2015 - April 2016

Dorm Room Fund is a student-run venture capital firm backed by First Round Capital. I make decisions about which startups to invest in (at a typical check size of $20,000) and help connect our startups to the broader entrepreneurial community. I sourced and led three investments (Pundit, Forrge, and MacroMeasures) and managed the firm's public-facing events and social media. I was recognized by Dorm Room Fund as the firm's best community builder in 2016.

Summer Intern, Charles and Lynn Schusterman Family Foundation — June 2015 - August 2015

As a summer intern at the Schusterman Foundation, I worked directly under the senior program officer and the vice-president of the Foundation doing due diligence and financial analysis of venture philanthropy opportunities. I also helped manage deal flow and provided support to the Schusterman Foundation's portfolio.

Founder and CEO, Autism Ambassadors — September 2008 - May 2015

Autism Ambassadors was a nonprofit I founded that taught typically developing students how to interact with students with autism. At its peak, Autism Ambassadors had a curriculum of over 1000 lesson plans written with the help of volunteer psychologists I recruited. The curriculum was used in over 30 school districts nationwide and was honored with a grant from the Helen Diller Family Foundation. Corwin, an imprint of Sage Publications, published the Autism Ambassadors Handbook, a textbook I wrote about interacting with students with autism.

Product Management Intern, Intelligize — June 2014 - August 2014

As a summer intern, I worked with the product lead to refine the user experience of Intelligize's core risk-analysis product.

Venture Intern, NewSchools Venture Fund's Seed Fund (now Reach Capital) — June 2014 - August 2014

As an intern at the Seed Fund (now Reach Capital), I led a project to create a cohesive set of information for aspiring education technology entrepreneurs including market research, sample legal documents, and corporation formation advice. I participated in diligence on companies coming through the pipeline, created market research to be used by the firm and portfolio companies, and sourced potential investment opportunities.

Founder and CEO, TruantToday — December 2010 - February 2013

TruantToday was an education technology startup I founded while in high school. It connected schools to parents when students cut class, bringing students—and funding—back to classrooms. TruantToday was honored at the 2011 Clinton Global Initiative America conference and at NBC's Education Nation as "teacher's favorite product." I also participated in Techstars, where I was the youngest founder ever accepted to the program.
